1. Introduction & Scope

1.1 This policy covers our School's approach to Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (referred to as RSE throughout this policy) and Health Education, which promotes the spiritual, moral, social, emotional and cultural (SMSEC) development of young people and is firmly embedded into the School's PSHE Education, in line with the statutory RSE and Health Education guidance, which is compulsory from September 2020. It was produced by the Deputy Head (Pastoral) in consultation with the Governing Body who retain responsibility for safeguarding and welfare throughout this policy and ensuring that the students' spiritual, moral, social and cultural needs are met. This is a Senior School policy, the Junior School policy, numbered 7.3b, is a separate document.

1.2 Parents, carers and guardians will be able to access this policy on the School's intranet, Firefly, on the main School website or in hard copy form free of charge. This policy may be made available in accessible formats when requested.

1.3 The School's Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education provision dovetails into the students' respective curriculums and compliments their learning and way of life within the School community.

1.4 The teaching of Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education became a statutory requirement for all schools in September 2020.

2. Whole School Values

2.1 This policy has been informed by the Quaker testimonies and our school's overarching vision to be a world-class centre of excellence and inspirational education that is as much about nurturing the spirit as it is about outstanding academic success.

2.2 The values which underpin our vision and this policy are Simplicity; Truth and Integrity; Equality and Community; Peace; and Sustainability (STEPS). These values will be actively embraced and promoted through our RSE programme.

2.3 The Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education programme also promotes the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs.

3. Creating a Safe and Supportive Environment

3.1 In order to deliver a Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education programme which works within students' real life experiences, we create a safe and supportive learning environment by explicitly establishing agreed ground rules of respect, openness, confidence (to share) and kindness whereby the teachers who lead the sessions facilitate a safe and supportive environment for learning. Many teachers use approaches such as distancing techniques, setting ground rules with the class to help manage sensitive discussion and using question boxes to allow students to raise issues anonymously.

We aim to ensure that students know that their opinions and questions are valued and respected. The Health Centre and Rose Cottage staff support students who have worries or concerns they wish to share privately.

3.2 Where we believe that students may be vulnerable and at risk of significant harm or present a risk of significant harm to others, staff will adhere to the School's safeguarding policy and procedure which are contained in policy 2.1. Vulnerable students are closely monitored, and are risk assessed, all notes will be kept on MyConcern.

3.3 In accordance with the government's Prevent Duty, Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education is one of the ways the School builds students' resilience to radicalisation by promoting fundamental British values and enabling them to challenge extremist views.

4. Equality and Diversity

4.1 The School is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of students, welcoming students from all ethnic groups, backgrounds and creeds whilst balancing human rights and freedoms with the lawful needs and rules of the School community and the rights and freedoms of others.

4.2 The School is active in its responsibilities under the Equality Act 2010 and has an Equal Opportunities Policy - Students (2.11) in place. The School is aware of the sensitivities around teaching students with special educational needs, and tailors the contents of the lessons to meet the needs of all students who may be at differing developmental levels.

The School endeavours to make reasonable adjustments on a case by case basis, having evaluated the nature of the need.

4.3 We promote the needs and interests of all students, irrespective of their race, religion or belief, national, ethnic or social origin, gender, gender reassignment, sexual orientation, pregnancy or maternity, disability or special educational needs by actively exploring and celebrating peoples' differences, and ensuring the PSHE programme is in line with the school's equality and diversity policy. The delivery of Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education will take into account the ability, age, readiness, and cultural background of our students and those with English as a second language to ensure that all can fully access the Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education programme, and is therefore central to reducing the risk of bullying. We promote social learning and expect our students to show a high regard for others. We use our Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education as a vehicle to address diversity issues and to ensure equality for all.

4.4 We seek to raise students' awareness of local, national and international political issues and views in a non-partisan way and without actively encouraging support of any particular political viewpoint in order to prevent political indoctrination. This will be done through the delivery of a balanced curriculum which promotes the respect of the rights and views of others.

4.5 We will challenge any behaviours that could lead to any form of sexual harassment or violence, through Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education, PHSE, and the school's pastoral and curriculum provision as a whole.

5. Aims and Objectives

5.1 Our Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education provision is embedded into our PSHE programme, which is a values driven programme which aims to provide students with the knowledge, values and skills they need for spiritual, moral, social, emotional and cultural development. This links to our wider curriculum and whole school values (STEPS).

6. Intended Outcomes

6.1 The aim of Relationships, Relationships and Sex and Health Education is to give young people the information they need to help them develop healthy, nurturing relationships of all kinds, not just intimate relationships. It should enable them to know what a healthy relationship looks like and what makes a good friend, a good colleague and a successful marriage or other type of committed relationship.

In the Senior School, RSE also covers contraception, developing intimate relationships and resisting pressure to have sex (and not applying pressure). It teaches what is acceptable and unacceptable behaviour in relationships. This will help students understand the positive effects that good relationships have on their mental wellbeing, identify when relationships are not right and understand how such situations can be managed. Through gaining the knowledge of what a healthy relationship is like, students can be empowered to identify when relationships are unhealthy. Students are taught that unhealthy relationships can have a lasting, negative impact on mental wellbeing. Effective RSE does not encourage early sexual experimentation. Students are taught to understand human sexuality and to respect themselves and others. It enables students to mature, build their confidence and self-esteem and understand the reasons for delaying sexual activity.

In the Senior School, students should be taught the facts and the law about sex, sexuality, sexual health and gender identity in an age-appropriate and inclusive way. All students should feel that the content is relevant to them and their developing sexuality. Sexual orientation and gender identity is explored at a timely point and in a clear, sensitive and respectful manner. When teaching about these topics, teachers are aware that students may be discovering or understanding their sexual orientation or gender identity. There should be an equal opportunity to explore the features of stable and healthy same-sex relationships. This is integrated into the RSE programme, rather than addressed separately or in only one lesson.

It is recognised that there will be a range of opinions regarding RSE. The starting principle when teaching each of these must be that the applicable law should be taught in a factual way so that students are clear on their rights and responsibilities as citizens.

Students at Sidcot School should be well informed about the full range of perspectives and, within the law, should be well equipped to make decisions for themselves about how to live their own lives, whilst respecting the right of others to make their own decisions and hold their own beliefs. Key aspects of the law relating to sex, which should be taught, include the age of consent, what consent is and is not, the definitions and recognition of rape, sexual assault and harassment, and choices permitted by the law around pregnancy.

Grooming, sexual exploitation and domestic abuse, including coercive and controlling behaviour, is also addressed within the RSE programme, which includes the physical and emotional damage caused by female genital mutilation (FGM). As well as addressing this in the context of the law, students may also need support to recognise when relationships (including family relationships) are unhealthy or abusive (including the unacceptability of neglect, emotional, sexual and physical abuse and violence, including honour-based violence and forced marriage) and strategies to manage this or access support for oneself or others at risk.

Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education at Sidcot is also closely linked to internet safety education. Students will learn how to recognise risks, harmful content and contact, and how and to whom to report issues. also addresses issues around internet safety.

6.2 The learning outcomes of our programme will be that the students will:

- learn to respect themselves and others;
- develop the skills and knowledge to live confident, healthy and independent lives;
- build upon prior skills and knowledge;
- develop the confidence to ask questions, challenge information and express their views and opinions;
- be able to form and maintain healthy and respectful relationships, communicate and work with others;
- understand how relationships may affect mental and physical health
- understand they have a right to feel valued and respected and be able to the characteristics of healthy relationships and to identify what respectful behaviour looks like;
- learn and understand physical development at appropriate stages;
- understand human sexuality, reproduction, sexual health, emotions and relationships and contraception;
- and will have access to information about contraception, local and national health advice/services;
- learn the reasons for delaying sexual activity and the benefits to be gained from such delay, including the avoidance of unplanned pregnancy;
- respect others irrespective of their race, colour, religion or belief, national, ethnic or social origin, gender, gender reassignment, sexual orientation, pregnancy or maternity, disability or special educational needs;
- be able to identify gender roles, stereotyping, prejudice behaviour and equality;
- understand that sexual violence and sexual harassment is always wrong;
- be provided with the opportunity to make real decisions and understand students should take responsibility for their decisions and actions and contribute to the lives of others;
- have the skills to develop as an independent and emotionally resilient individual;
- understand the value of stable and loving relationships;
- understand consent and learn skills and techniques to communicate consent clearly
- explore, consider and understand moral dilemmas with an appreciation of the consequences of choices and develop critical thinking as part of decision- making;
- understand and promote, where possible, the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs;
- learn to recognise and avoid exploitation and abuse;
- learn of the legal consequences of sexting/distributing indecent images online
- have a strong moral sense of what is right and wrong (and consequently what is contrary to the law of England);
- any cultures of sexual harassment will be addressed.

7. Key Principles and Teaching Methodology

7.1 PSHE is delivered in both the Junior and Senior schools in a discrete lesson on a weekly basis through a range of teaching methods, including group work, discussions and debates, student-led projects and presentations and guest speakers. Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education is embedded into the School's PSHE education programme. We will ensure learning 'starts from where the students are' by establishing prior knowledge at the beginning of each topic. The teacher/ facilitator will ensure that sessions, including those on risky behaviours, remain positive in tone whilst being reminded of the support available for those who may seek further support or advice. We will ensure cross-curricular learning by encouraging students to recognise any links with other subjects or activities within School. Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education delivered in PHSE builds on the 12 points found at Appendix 1. In the Senior School, Relationships and Sex Education takes place across all Senior forms (Third Form to Sixth Form) in Autumn Term 2. Health Education takes place in Spring Term 1 and Summer Term 1 (Appendix 2).

8. Responsibility for Teaching Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education

8.1 In the Senior School each year group's PSHE programme is produced, reviewed and coordinated by the respective Head of Year and PSHE Lead, under the supervision of the Deputy Head (Pastoral) and delivered by tutors to their tutor groups. Our on-site Health Centre staff (qualified and practising nurses) may also contribute to the delivery of Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education by offering individual support and guidance. Heads of Year may organise guest speakers or workshops to enhance the programme on offer. The PSHE programme has been aligned so that the whole Senior School deliver the same themes at specific times throughout the year (Appendix 2). This aids the use of in-house knowledge and specialism within our staff, as well as create opportunity of peer teaching between the older and the younger year groups. The overall PSHE programme is overseen by the Deputy Head (Pastoral) and PSHE Lead.

8.2 Sexual reproduction is covered in the following ways as part of the science curriculum:

- Year 7 study the reproductive system in the first part of the Autumn term. They cover: adolescence, reproductive systems, fertilisation and implantation, development of foetus, menstrual cycle.
- Following this, Year 11 study puberty and the menstrual cycle, contraceptives and fertility in second half of Autumn Term.

9. How we Assess Learning and Progress

9.1 We assess students' learning and progression through a range of assessment for learning techniques. End of topic summative assessments may include the production of posters, in-class presentations and student led assemblies.

10. How Parents and Carers are involved

10.1 We are clear that parents and carers are the prime educators for children on many of the issues related to Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education. It is our intention that Sidcot complements, reinforces and builds on the learning that has taken place in the home already. We are committed to working with parents and carers. Parents can request to review resources used in RSE lessons by contacting the school. On a termly basis we invite parents into school for a range of pastorally themed talks and workshops (called 'Let's Talk'), often led by experts in their fields. The aim of these workshops is to align PSHE and Relationships, Relationships and Sex, and Health Education content with the conversations parents have at home with their children, offer an opportunity to ask questions in a non-judgmental environment and work together with Sidcot to address pastoral issues.

Parents have the right to request that their child be withdrawn from some or all of sex education delivered as part of the statutory RSE. Any such requests must be made in writing to the Head, who will inform the Pastoral Team.

11. Guest Speakers

11.1 Year Heads may organise guest speakers to deliver a talk, presentation or workshop session as part of their PSHE education programme to enhance the delivery of PSHE. Staff who organise guest speakers must complete a risk assessment for visiting speakers and follow the School's safeguarding and child protection procedure for visitors (policies 2.1 and 3.5) in order to assess and limit the risk of harm or radicalisation of students in accordance with the Prevent Duty.

12. Legal Framework

12.1 This policy has been written taking into account the following statutory (mandatory), and non-statutory guidance:

Our school is committed to relationships and sex education, which:

1. Is an identifiable part of our personal, social, health and economic (PSHE) education curriculum, which has planned, timetabled lessons across all the Key Stages
2. Is taught by staff regularly trained in RSE and PSHE (with expert visitors invited in to enhance and supplement the programme where appropriate)
3. Works in partnership with parents and carers, informing them about what their children will be learning and about how they can contribute at home
4. Delivers lessons where pupils feel safe and encourages participation by using a variety of teaching approaches with opportunities to develop critical thinking and relationship skills
5. Is based on reliable sources of information, including about the law and legal rights, and distinguishes between fact and opinion
6. Promotes safe, equal, caring and enjoyable relationships and discusses real-life issues appropriate to the age and stage of pupils, including friendships, families, consent, relationship abuse, sexual exploitation and safe relationships online
7. Gives a positive view of human sexuality, with honest and medically accurate information, so that pupils can learn about their bodies and sexual and reproductive health in ways that are appropriate to their age and maturity
8. Gives pupils opportunities to reflect on values and influences (such as from peers, media, faith and culture) that may shape their attitudes to relationships and sex, and nurtures respect for different views
9. Includes learning about how to get help and treatment from sources such as the school nurse and other health and advice services, including reliable information online
10. Fosters gender equality and LGBT+ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans) equality and challenges all forms of discrimination in RSE lessons and in every-day school life
11. Meets the needs of all pupils with their diverse experiences - including those with special educational needs and disabilities
12. Seeks pupils' views about RSE so that teaching can be made relevant to their real lives and assessed and adapted as their needs change

Notes
These 12 points explain what is needed for good quality RSE. This is based on research evidence and is supported by a wide range of organisations. The purpose of RSE is to help children and young people to be safe, healthy and happy as they grow up and in their future lives. RSE must always be appropriate to pupils' age and stage of development and is an essential part of safeguarding. The law requires that, from September 2019, relationships and sex education (RSE) is taught in all secondary schools in England, and that relationships education is taught in all primary schools in England. In addition, National Curriculum Science* (which is taught in maintained schools) includes some elements of sex education.
